EAAACA calls for government's commitment on corruption

Constitutional Affairs Minister Gen. Kahinda Otafiire of Uganda and participants.

Heads and Representatives of the East African Association of Anti-Corruption Authority have Held the 9th Annual General Meeting in Entebbe, Uganda whose theme was strengthening EAAACA's Effort to eradicate Corruption in East Africa.

Corruption undermines the rule of law, causes instability, robs the poor and hampers economic development in Eastern African region. Heads and Representatives of the East African Association of Anti-Corruption Authority acknowledge the need for cooperation towards the common objective, goals and best practices of preventing and fighting corruption within the Eastern African region.

The authorities made the appeal at the end of their two-day regional meeting on Wednesday at Imperial Resort Beach Hotel in Entebbe which was closed by the constitutional affairs minister Gen. Kahinda Otafiire.

Otafiire said, "The fight against corruption is important for development. It is not possible to achieve much in development when you are grappling with corruption. In Uganda we have enacted so many laws but corruption is still a big problem. Corruption should be made a more risky venture."

Clement Musangabatware, the deputy ombudsman in charge of preventing and fighting corruption in Rwanda said, "There should be political will from the leaders if corruption is to be successfully fought.

Heads and Representatives of the East African Association of Anti-Corruption Authority.

This should be complemented by strict enforcement of the laws, assets recovery mechanisms and sensitization of citizens to fight corruption. Combating corruption must be a collective responsibility".

The newly elected EAAACA president Dr. Edward Hosea Gamya from Tanzania said, "Corruption begins in elections. If you elect corrupt leaders, you get corruption. The people of East Africa should elect leaders of integrity if they don't want corruption."

Halakhe Waqo, the CEO for the Ethics and Anti-Corruption Commission in Kenya, said, "The solution to corruption is commitment by particular governments and it must be from the top leaders. It should not be empty sloganeering but real commitment and empowerment of state agencies and involving citizens in the war against corruption."

Uganda's IGG Irene Mulyagonja said, "Anti-Corruption authorities need to be strengthened to their work because expectations from them are very high. Uganda is registering progress in the fight against corruption. More people have been prosecuted."

Heads and Representatives of the East African Association of Anti-Corruption Authority have been addressed by RT Hon. Dan KIDEGA, the Speaker of the EAST Africa Legislative Assembly in the opening ceremony who pledged the support to EAAACA in preventing and fighting corruption within the region.
